

RE: Kimal Lumber/Building To A Cure

June 26, 2020

TO: Our Supportive, Philanthropic Partners

Since 2002, Kimal Lumber has focused its main philanthropic efforts toward Johns Hopkins All Children's Hospital and the Ronald McDonald House. Over the last 18 years, Kimal has been fortunate to be able to show its support of these two organizations in donations totalling over $750,000. The two main events comprising this effort for many years has been a spring car show, and a fall golf tournament. These two events originated from the two primary owners of Kimal Lumber Company, Al Bavry and Kim Pavkovich. Al has always been a car enthusiast at heart, and Kim always enjoyed getting out on the links for some recreational fun! Over the years, most Kimal employees have volunteered or at least been involved in some way, with the Building to a Cure effort – spearheaded by Lisa Ammerman. It has been a rewarding effort for all, in so many different ways.

This year, 2020, has been a difficult year for everyone, and not just at Kimal, or in our state of Florida, but in our world entirely. We have seen the "Covid Effect" have an impact on all of our industries, scheduled events, and even how we conduct our daily lives. The Kimal Car show had to be postponed, and even at this writing, it is not known when we may be able to coordinate the event for this year. We have had to reevaluate our business, restructuring and even refocusing our efforts in some areas. After lengthy discussion about Kimal's commitment to JH All Children's Hospital and Ronald McDonald House, and how best to continue that supportive partnership, the decision has been made to focus the company's efforts on the annual car show moving forward, and not have to split and commit efforts to two separate fundraising events. For all of you that have supported and participated in the annual golf tournament over the past years, we certainly appreciate your partnership with Kimal and encourage you to continue your support through the car show.

All of us at Kimal, look forward to getting past the current challenges we face together, and to joining with you in continuing our heartfelt support for our two community partners: John Hopkins All Children's Hospital, and The Ronald McDonald House.

Respectfully,

Robert Hinman
